Transfield Services has renewed two contracts with the Florida Department of Transportation and the District Department of Transportation, Washington D.C., totalling US$44 million.

Transfield Services will deliver a wide range of essential services to the Florida Department of Transportation, including maintenance, bridge inspections, capital works, traffic management and emergency response services across their network of roads, bridges and associated infrastructure, such as weigh stations, until 2016.

The contract covers more than 302 kilometres (188 miles) of the Interstate 95 road network in Florida's Space Coast region between Daytona and Fort Pierce.

Similar services will be provided to the District Department of Transportation, Washington D.C. for its 17 tunnels in the National Highways System for another year.

Transfield Services Chief Executive Officer, North America, Mr Joseph Sadatmehr, said: "We have partnered with the Florida Department of Transportation for more than a decade and have increased our number of contracts with the department from one to 14 over that time."

"Our partnership with the District Department of Transportation, Washington D.C. was renewed due to the high-quality asset management services we have provided to the client across the tunnel network since 2000."
